RESPONSE TO APPLICANTS ARGUMENTS

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103© and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Leppla et al. (WO 94/18332).

Leppla et al. teach anthrax protective antigen (see last paragraph page 25 and first paragraph, page 26) and a fusion protein containing the PA binding domain of LF/growth factor, wherein growth factors are full length proteins(see last paragraph page 25 and second paragraph, page 26). Leppla et al. teach that the fusion protein can contain the first 1-254 amino acids of LF (e.g. PA binding domain)(see pages 6 and 7). The name anthrax as used by Leppla et al. refers to Bacillus anthracis (see last paragraph page 3, continued on next page). Processed protective antigen is created when the anthrax protective antigen is administered in vivo. Leppla et al. teach that the LF/fusion protein and PA are administered as a pharmaceutical composition (see page 27) containing saline (aqueous solution of physiologically compatible salts, see page 28). Leppla et al. do not teach the molar ratio recited in claim 1. Leppla et al. teach that the amount of PA and LF/fusion protein will be optimized using routine procedures. It would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have created the claimed invention because Leppla teach the claimed invention except for the molar ratio recited in claim 1 and Leppla et al. teach that the amount of PA and LF/fusion protein will be optimized using routine procedures. The recitation of an intended use in this product claim carries no patentable weight because the claimed product is the same as the product rendered obvious in the instant rejection.

Regarding applicants comments, Leppla et al. disclose that:
“The amount can be optimized by routine procedures. The exact amount of such LF and PA compositions required will vary from subject to subject, depending on the species, age, weight and general condition of the subject, the severity of the disease that is treated, the particular fusion protein of composition used, its mode of administration and the like.” (page 27, fourth paragraph).

In addition, Leppla et al. also teach a specific procedure that would be used to determine the amount of LF fusion protein versus PA protein that would be administered using a particular type of conjugate (see page 26, last paragraph, continued on next page). It would have been prima facie obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have created the claimed invention because Leppla teach the claimed invention except for the molar ratio recited in claim 1 and Leppla et al. teach that the amount of PA and LF/fusion protein will be optimized using routine procedures.

4. No claim is allowed.

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
